Math at the Moment

We are learning to count on. That means I can start at any number and continue counting. Given the number 4 and 2, that means I say "4, 5, 6."

We are reviewing numbers bonds and how they show 2 parts making a whole.

Reminders

All students must have a Migrant Worker Form completed this year. Please send this back ASAP even if it does not apply to you. Thanks for your help in getting all registration paperwork completed.

Coming Up

Solar Eclipse Celebration - Aug. 21

House Sorting - Aug. 22

Early Release - Sept. 14

Dismissal is at 10:45 a.m.

Tip of the Week

Counting is a great activity to do in the car, while waiting in line, or while washing hands. 1st graders need to be able to crossover from one group of tens to the next. Knowing the after 49 comes 50 or after 59 comes 60 can be tricky.

Reading Right Now

Phonics Skill of the Week: sounds m, s, a, p, t, n, r, l, c, f, o, d, h, e, b, i, k, ck, u, g, w, x, v, q, j, y, z

Quickly knowing these sounds and how to write them is critical to becoming a reader and writer.

We are reading: Jack and the Beanstalk, The Rainforest, Zoom!, The Tortoise and the Hare, I Like To, He Can Go!, and much much more! Watch for books to come home and ask your child to read it to you.

Kindergarten Sight Words to Review
